

Appian Named a 2023 Tech100 Honoree by the Northern Virginia Technology Council

December 6, 2023

MCLEAN, Va., Dec. 6, 2023 /PRNewswire/ -- Appian (Nasdaq: APPN) today announced its recognition as a 2023 NVTC Tech100 honoree by the Northern Virginia Technology Council (NVTC). The NVTC Tech100 awards celebrate forward-thinking companies, top executives, and emerging leaders who are making significant contributions to innovation, implementing breakthrough technologies, and driving economic growth in the National Capital Region.

Appian announces its recognition as a 2023 NVTC Tech100 honoree by the Northern Virginia Technology Council (NVTC).

"Appian is one of a few public software companies headquartered in the greater Washington D.C. area. We're proud to be recognized by NVTC as a Tech100 Honoree," said Matt Calkins, CEO of Appian.

The NVTC Tech100 honorees were selected by a panel of independent judges and comprise 61 tech companies, 33 executives, and six emerging leaders who have demonstrated dedication, vision, and innovation in the region.

"Congratulations to Appian and all of this year's Tech100 honorees—a cross-section of innovators from the tech sectors of cyber, cloud, AI, software development, data centers, government IT and commercial tech," said Jennifer Taylor, NVTC president and CEO. "I am so inspired by the positive impact these honorees have on the technology field. Our region continues to be one of the nation's leading tech hubs—and with the exponential growth of responsible and trustworthy AI, our future is brighter than ever."
